

Pancreatic cancer- please share

Mom is 80. Diagnosis with PC feb 28 2017. Whipple was performed. The tumor spread to the main arterie and 4 out of the 22 lymph nodes had the csncer. Surgery was consider successful however cancer had spread. We had various visits to ER after that until Jun 2017. Then a good 6 months. End of Dec 2017 back in ER with sepsis, was clear with drain and antibiotic and then urine infection – mid Jan had so much pain, was lathargic very low energy, and had collapaed in my hands... decided to admit into palitative care. She has stabilized now and is walking with walker....eating....

This is all very confusing for us. We are enjoying to good days however I'd like to understand if anyone else has experienced such bad days thinking it was the end and being told this may be the time... to being stabilize enough to eat, drink, walk?
